

RUBEN BOUMTJE BOUMTJE

Biographical Information

Ruben Boumtje Boumtje is a retired Cameroonian professional basketball player. He moved to the US in 1996 and attended Archbishop Carroll HS in Washington, D.C before attending Georgetown University from 1997-2001. He holds career averages of 9.6 points and 6.8 rebounds per game. He ranks fourth on the Hoyas' all-time blocked shots list with 255, behind Patrick Ewing, Alonzo Mourning and Dikembe Mutombo.^[3]

He played 10 years professionally in the NBA (Portland, Cleveland) and Europe (Greece, Germany) and retired in 2011.

Ruben obtained a Masters' degree in Applied Mathematics and Statistics from Georgetown University in 2014 and was a Data Scientist working as a Digital Strategist for Siemens Energy in Orlando, FL. He joined the Philadelphia 76ers' staff as a technical scout, and most recently was hired as the assistant general manager of the Delaware Blue Coats of the NBA G League.

Ruben is married and is enjoying coaching his sons' basketball teams.