FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BCI ANNOUNCES PRO BASKETBALL PLAYERS APPEARING ON THE 2nd BCI COURTSIDE LIVE (CSL² 2)
TUESDAY, February 10, via Spreecast –REAL TIME, INTERACTIVE, AND ONLINE

IOWA CITY, IOWA, February 1, 2015 – Four times a year, Basketball Club International hosts a real-time, interactive, public event that connects former and current professional basketball players to kids and fans around the world. More than 7,000 viewers tuned in to previous BCI Courtside Live events, and the audience is growing.

The next BCI Courtside Live (CSL² 2) is scheduled for Tuesday, February 10, from 9 pm – 10 pm ET.

BCI Courtside Live is hosted by BCI at Spreecast.com, a “social video platform that connects people through conversation” and archived events are available for viewing. The upcoming event will feature three pro players – Luke Ridnour – Orlando Magic, and NBA Legends Antoine Carr and Jerome Williams, with Peter Young as moderator. Bios for these men, as well as for those featured in previous events are available at bciedge.org/courtsidelive.

Real-time BCI Courtside Live conversations feature audience questions and player responses with a general theme of the practical and spiritual aspects of life in the pros. CSL allows players to ‘get real’ with fans and kids while being vulnerable and sharing values and experiences. Players share details from many areas of their lives, including athletics, family, and personal projects.

During the first of four events this basketball season, Clark Kellogg moderated a chat with a great group of pro players. Following are just a few highlights:

- Marcus Liberty said, "I always tell young players that patience is so important. What you put in to the game is what you'll get out of it. I hear a lot of players say 'I wish.' I just tell them, 'hard work will, wishing won't'."
- Tony Farmer told us, "You need to know to pray in the times of need, times of grief, and when times are good."
- Nick Anderson shared, "I thank God for saving me from me. I walk by faith and not by sight."

Basketball Club International is a unique nonprofit organization that challenges professional basketball players to grow deeper in their faith, walk alongside their peers, and share their life experiences with fans and kids. Pitch Points:

We recognize that BCI Courtside Live, and Basketball Club International's vision, speaks to a wide demographic. While there is often overlap between audience member interests, there are two primary areas of BCI program fanship: Fans of Pro Basketball and Fans of Character and Active Faith. BCI Courtside Live will intentionally address the priorities of these groups.

- Unique, live access to professional players
- Fans may watch or participate in an unscripted Q&A
- Open to the public (no ticket required!)
- Viewing parties may be acknowledged on screen
- Players will "get real" about practical and spiritual aspects of life in the pros
- Access to pro athletes who are also followers of Jesus
- Influence is widespread and mainstream
- Viewing parties may include youth groups and congregations
- BCI programs provide opportunities for players to "step up" for fans, kids, and peers

BCI Courtside Live Q&A,

with Kathy Scheuerman, President of BCI

Q: As you organized your first BCI Courtside Live event, what was on your mind?

Kathy: It's amazing how quickly our organization has moved on this idea. Ten years ago, when Sharm and I founded BCI, social media technology hadn't advanced enough to create, promote, and host an international, online, real-time event with a limitless audience. We would have been talking about something more traditional, like a panel at one of our Basketball Plus camps.

Q: Your 2013 fundraiser happened online, too, through crowdsourcing. How important is it for nonprofit organizations to be web savvy?

Kathy: It's become a requirement. Whether we're raising funds for our programs, reaching new fans and kids, or encouraging a pro player to "step up his game," BCI communicates the way people do now – through social media, especially. When we want to send a letter, we email it. We haven't printed a brochure in years.

Q: BCI meets people where they are spiritually, and also where they are socially?

Kathy: Right. Yes, that's true. We want to be wherever our fans are, because our conversation – about the influence of pro basketball players – is continuous.

Q: What kinds of conversations happen at BCI Courtside Live?

Kathy: There's no script, so we never know! The concept is meant to be fresh and honest. Fans and kids ask questions about life in the pros, and pro players answer them. More live questions, more live answers. The moderator keeps things moving. We expect the questions to include a mix of spiritual and practical themes, just like players hear at BCI camps and other live events.

Q: How does this event fit into BCI programs?

Kathy: BCI Courtside Live is part of BCI Leads, which is our public outreach initiative. The idea is to give professional basketball players new opportunities for community service and interaction. We like to say, "Led by faith, BCI Leads by example." Players who work with us – or through us – are champions of character, integrity, values, and active faith.

Q: And they've got game, too?

Kathy: Yes. It's because they can play that they're in the pros, and that's where some players find it challenging to "keep it real" in a world that often asks them to compromise their spiritual lives. And it can be hard to find support at this level. That's how BCI Loop, a fraternity for pro basketball players, serves. We organize the program, but the players own it and challenge each other as they see fit.

Q: Are BCI Loop players involved in BCI Courtside Live?

Kathy: We announce players who will be participating about a week before each event. We know a lot of players, many "on the path" and many considering it, and more players are getting to know us every day. While BCI Courtside Live is one way a player can "get real" with a crowd of fans and kids, BCI Loop is a fraternity of players that offers confidential peer to peer support.

Q: So players can choose a level of vulnerability?

Kathy: We encourage vulnerability and authenticity. BCI Leads and BCI Loop are both important and meaningful, but the experience of each is totally unique. A player who participates in both should be very comfortable sharing his experiences, examining his life choices, and even challenging others to strive for deeper faith and higher standards. He'd probably be a leader among his peers.

Q: Why does BCI care so much about professional basketball players?

Kathy: It started with Sharm Scheuerman, my late husband and BCI's cofounder. As a former player and coach, he never stopped caring about the young pros he met and mentored – talented, but not always prepared for the pressures of life as an athlete. BCI cares because we know that, with spiritual support, these players will lead by example. They will be real heroes and positive influencers, and the world needs more like them.

Q: What happens after a BCI Courtside Live event ends?

Kathy: Each event, including all of the questions and on-screen commentary, will be archived for viewing anytime. We see this as a long-running program. As long as there are players willing to step up, we'll help connect them to fans and kids who care. So, once the chat is finished, we'll get to work planning the next events!

Antoine Carr

Biographical Information

A 6-9, garrulous youngster, Carr was a star basketball player at Wichita Heights High School (class of 1979)—a teammate on the 1977 Heights team was future NBA player Darnell Valentine. He accepted a scholarship to play locally at Wichita State University. A four-year player, Carr was a major contributor on a team that also included future NBA players Xavier McDaniel and Cliff Levingston. Restoring a rich tradition in the historic city of Wichita, Kansas after legendary NBA Champion, Dave Stallworth.

Coming off a senior season where he'd averaged 22.5 points and 7.6 rebounds a game in a strong college program, Carr was selected by the Detroit Pistons in the first round (eighth pick overall) of the 1983 NBA Draft. Carr scored 9,176 points in his NBA career playing for the Atlanta Hawks, Sacramento Kings, San Antonio Spurs, Houston Rockets, Vancouver Grizzlies and the Utah Jazz, where he was a vital part of the Jazz back-to-back appearances in the NBA Finals against Jordan, Pippen and the Chicago Bulls. Antoine played 16yrs in the NBA and vastly known for his orange tinted "Oakley Shades".

Antoine is currently devoted to his family, his son who is a high school basketball star in San Antonio, Texas, his construction company as well as his mother who is battling cancer and diabetes in his hometown of Wichita, KS.

Jerome Williams

Biographical Information

The Jerome Williams Brand is about character, determination, discipline, dedication, leadership, triumph over adversity, grace, charisma, family, success, spirituality, credibility and likeability, and that's the Doggpound's short list. The attributes that embody the Jerome Williams Brand resonate with a wide ranging audience and fan base. More than just an incredible athlete, as a person, Jerome recognizes the powerful influence he has had on consumers and embraces the responsibility that comes with being considered a fan favorite and role model.

The Jerome Williams Brand, whether it was on the court, in the community or in business associations, when JYD makes a promise, he consistently, readily delivers on that promise.

Jerome Williams image as a world class athlete, ultimate team player and fan favorite is well established by his Georgetown University Raymond Medley "Student Athlete Award", 1996 NCAA Big East championship, 1995 USA World Collegiate Team nomination, nine year NBA career, 1st NBA player to be a Top 10 Rebounder who avg. less than 22 mins., 2000 "Good Guys of Sports Award" and countless other honors and awards.

Jerome Williams image as a philanthropist is evidenced by his tremendous contributions to community through his JYD project that was established in 1997 in Detroit. The values he learned and the encouragement he received from his parents at an early age are truly reflective in the way he attacked educational issues within our school systems. He was the only 2nd player in NBA history to be named community ambassador in 2006. What Jerome Williams has done in the community alongside his brother Johnnie at such a young age is just as remarkable as his achievements on the basketball court.

Jerome's image as a successful businessman is recognized by his ability to connect emotionally with a wide audience through his brand attributes. From redesigning the latest automobiles for some of the largest automakers, executive producing hit TV shows for MSG network, to producing educational music for kids, Jerome has proven that he is an impact player in business and is celebrated by corporate partners for setting high standards and diligently working hard to surpass expectations.

With his dedication and determination on the court, in the community and in business, Jerome Williams has an ability to make a message heard.
